The aim of Countercyclical Capital Buffer regime as envisaged in the guidelines is of two folds:

- a. It requires banks to build up a buffer of capital in good times which may be used to maintain flow of credit to the real sector in difficult times.
- b. It achieves the broader macro-prudential goal of restricting the banking sector from indiscriminate lending in the periods of excess credit growth that have often been associated with the building up of system-wide risk.

The framework envisages the credit-to-GDP gap as the main indicator, which is used in conjunction with other supplementary indicators.
